William Scott came up from Provo last evening, after spenling a number of days there with his family. He reports that the political situation in the Garden City is rather complex. called yesterday and it was attended by a majority of the merchants of the city. Mr. Scott says it was the largest men that had assembled on political matters for a long time, and the en-thusiasm exhibited pressaged a strong opposition to the old-line parties The greatest objection the business before the people is that they declare for prohibition, and the merchants, together with many professional men.

WOMAN CRAFTER WITH A STORY OF DISTRESS

One of the cleverest women grafters ber of months is now operating in Ogden. Her game is the same old one of having lost a ticket and being anxious to get to the bedside of a dying mother who is supposed to be in some small western town. The woman's seemingly dejected manner supposed to be caused from grief, caused a number of the local business men of Ogden to become sympathetic and to give the woman amounts ranging from fifty cents to two dollars

Contrary to the general rule of the yoman grafter being a charming youn lady with a baby face, the one in this case is rather a common featured woman and fairly well dressed. When telling her story to a victim her sentences are broken and she rambles from one subject to another, convey ing the impression that she is suffer ing intense agony at not being able to reach the bedside of a sick mother.

Tom O'Neill Sent to the County Jail-Claims His Name is Lowell, Not O'Neill.

In the police court this morning Ware pleaded guilty to the charge of drunkenness and was promptly sen-tenced to a fine of $5 or serve five days in the city bastile. William did not have the money, so he went to jail the "jag" still upon him. Charles Anderson was charg disturbing the peace. He pleaded no guilty and the court placed him under a $5 bond for his appearance when the case is called for trial.

Gordon, a mere boy, was arraigned before the court on the charge of petit larceny. The complaint al-leged that Joe had stolen a pair of shoes. Joe needed shoes, for his feet were incased in strips of leather that had once formed a shoe, his heels coming in contact with the ground. He pleaded guilty and was fined $6 or six Tom O'Neill came before the judge with a smiling countenance, his hawk eves fairly flashing with deviltry, as he listened to the reading of the com plaint charging him with burglary. He was not asked to plead to the com-plaint but was advised that he would be given a preliminary hearing in the course of a few days and that it was his privilege to employ an attorney Tom said that was alright, "but," ejaculated, "my name is not Tom O'Neill, it is George Lowell," and, turning to Detective Pender, he said, You know my name is Lowell. Why do you want to call me O'Neill?"

Mr. Pender denied the acquaintance However, the "book" was so changed that it read "Lowell" instead of "O'-The bond was fixed at $500 and the man, after being manacled, was taken to the county jail where he will remain until his troubles are finally passed upon,

REV. CARVER'S SERMON ON THE TRINITY

The services last Sunday evening in the First Presbyterian church were made attractive by the special music rendered by Mrs. C. H. Stevens and Misses Russell and Coursey. In opening the services the pastor announced that any questions sent to him in re-gard to the "Trinity" would be answered next Sunday evening when the set es upon the Christian mysteries will be continued, the theme being "The Union of the Human and the Divine Natures in Jesus Christ.

Speaking upon the theme of "The Historical and Evolutionary Explanation of the Trinity," Rev. Carver said in part Much of every religion deals with great mysteries. The reason is plain for so much of life is a mystery, and then before all lies the great myster, of death, that any religion which leaves all this untouched does not hold and win the hearts of men. A religion without mystery would leave unanswered one-half of our longings and needs and therefore would not satisfy But what is the meaning of this word mystery? Paul uses it to designate those great truths which lie within and partly beyond the limits of | court on a charge of attempt human knowledge and experience. We today honor him for his truth. So much of the mystery of religion is due earthly, while religion has to do with the spiritual and eternal also.

The teaching of the trinity lies at the very basis of religious truth. Simp ly stated it is that God is one as re gards to unity but three as regards to could complete her musical education. been made of the arithmetical side of this truth. It is really that God is one as to nature while three as to expression. The Hebrew word for God s a plural one and thus at the very opening of the Bible we have a gleam of this great truth. This is intensified when we read that this God says, let us make man in our image. Again we ead, "The Lord thy God is one God." Why then was this truth set forth reason is that the trinity is the result of going deeper and deeper ino the nature of God. First to appea to a primitive people He was revealed as the God of Power, the Creator Then when the people had advanced He revealed His truth and love as the Christ is given to the world. Lastly, when grace and strength is needed the Spirit, or as the Christ called him, the Strengthener, is revealed. Notice however, that from the very first we have separate teaching concerning each of these three, but not in full-ness. So it is that the trinity is the great God striving to reach and win the hearts and lives of men. That such is the case is also shown by the esults for pure unitarianism soon either becomes cold and unpowerful or else it runs into pantheism. The rintarian religion is the only one for which men will suffer and die

eveals the fact that the belief in a rinity as to the Godhead lies at the oundation of human life for we find hat all the motive and primitive religions are trinitarian. The emperor of China once a year offers sacrifice to the spirit of Unity and Trinity, and the great Chinese religious leader, Lootse, was a pure trinitarian. India has been called the home of religion, but the earliest leaders there were and still are trinitarian. Their sacred writings plainly say there are three deities but only one Godhead, the Great Soul. The Chaldean. Babylonian, the Phoenician, the Egyptian, the Grecion, the Thibetian, the Tatarian, the Keltic Germanic and Slavic mythology were all trinitarian. Even the primitive American Indian worshipped the sun under three im ages which they called Father, Son and Brother Sun. was called Tangallanga which means eminated from the great spirit they called "Trinimaaka," or trinity. We were reading this week a volume on the "native religions of Mexico and Peru," and the basic thought was a trinitarian one. Now do you not see that the one who says that those who contend against the trinity idea of God as unity and trinity have a large task in explaining why, if the trinity la false and unreasonable, if it is found to be the natural way in which all peoples thought of God something about it which naturally appeals to the human idea of religion and which alone satisfies the religious instinct. The religion of Mohammer the only great unitarian one and that is not a primitive one has had to depend upon force to make its converts.

Of all the great religious truths none give more strength, faith and blessing to the one who will study them than this oft-decried teaching of God triune. All that is richest and best in our faith centers in it. The usual process of doubt is to com mence with doubting this teaching and when belief in it is gone all that is noblest and most vital in the re ligious nature has been given up Therefore for a Christian to scoff a its teaching is like one deriding and
